We believe that this achievement by a local person is a good news story likely to be of interest to your readers. Our new Skydiver has kindly agreed to us making this approach and is prepared to provide further details should you so wish. And if you or a colleague on the editorial team would like to visit your local Drop Zone to experience skydiving first-hand - perhaps with a view to producing an article or photo spread on our exciting and different sport that's taking place in your locality - then I'm sure you will receive a warm welcome.
