

CELEBRATING NFTO

A Decade of Excellence in Skydiving

For over a decade, NFTO has been at the forefront of UK formation skydiving – a team defined by skill, dedication, and passion for the sport. British Skydiving has always proudly celebrated their achievements, sharing the story of one of our most inspiring teams. From their 2022 Female Formation Skydiving World Championship win to ten years of consistent elite performance, NFTO embodies the best of British skydiving. Their 2022 season alone included 550 self-funded jumps, a testament to their commitment and pursuit of excellence.

NFTO's unforgettable World Gold in 2022:

NFTO's 2022 Female 4-Way world title – achieved by Vana Parker, Anna Lea, Siân Stokes, Catherine Curtis and coach Simon Brentford – marked Britain's first skydiving world win since 2008, adding to their 9 FAI World Medals plus 2 FAI European medals in indoor and outdoor competitions.

Royal Aero Club Awards 2025:

NFTO were honoured with the Chairman's Cup for their exceptional performance and continued commitment to excellence in the sport.

European Championships Highlights:

Huge congratulations to our NFTO athletes for continually striving for sporting excellence – competing internationally, pushing boundaries in 4-way and other disciplines, delivering a superb performance at the 2025 Indoor World Championships in the open category, and celebrating Anna Lea's Female Bronze in Speed Skydiving.

Dedication Backed by an Exceptional Record:

NFTO won bronze at the 2016 and silver at the 2018 World Championships, as well as silver at the 2019 World Cup. Along with honours like the BPA Certificate of Merit and 2019 Prince of Wales Cup, their legacy is a true testament to excellence and perseverance.

Throughout these incredible moments, British Skydiving has highlighted not only NFTO's success but also the values that define them - professionalism, teamwork, and dedication.

Their story inspires skydivers everywhere, showing that with focus and commitment, greatness is within reach. We proudly honour NFTO's achievements and the lasting impact they've made on our skydiving community.
